Georgia Southern's Division of Continuing Education is excited to launch English as a Second Language community courses in a Lunch and Learn format this summer.

This short-term class will offer a casual and relaxed setting for individuals who want to improve conversational and professional English language skills.

Sessions will be held every Monday and Wednesday, from May 1 through May 24, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Nessmith-Lane Center, room 1906. Amy Perry, instructor in the English Language Program (ELP) at Georgia Southern, will hold all eight sessions for $65. Register by May 1 or on-site.

Call Perry or Megan Jackson, in the Division of Continuing Education, for registration information at 912-478-5555.

The University's regular ELP is a semester-long, academic program directed toward students who wish to pursue or are already enrolled in undergraduate and graduate programs. This program continues to offer students a solid foundation on which to thrive in academic reading, writing and speaking skills.

Georgia Southern University, a public Carnegie Doctoral/Research University founded in 1906, offers 119 degree programs serving 20,673 students.
